Better High Streets

Better Schools

secured to regenerate Waltham Forest during 2013

Dear Resident,

We know that you love life here in Waltham Forest, but you've also told us that you think the Council should be doing more to improve the borough's high streets, leisure facilities and schools.

2012 was a tremendous year for our borough and 2013 is going to be just as amazing. This year alone you will see works begin as a result of a massive £160million we have secured for investment in the borough.

We feel that we are closer than ever on delivering on our promises and over the coming months these exciting plans will become a reality as parks are improved, leisure centres are transformed and developments begin to be built as we make Waltham Forest an even better place to live.

Like you, we have ambitious plans for the borough, and although there may be some unavoidable temporary disruption whilst this work is going on, we can promise the wait will be well worth it and we thank you for your support.

We will keep you regularly updated on progress through Waltham Forest News and on our website

Leader of Waltham Forest Council

Creating a better place 2013

Better High Streets ▪ Better Leisure ▪ Better Schools

Waltham Forest

Creating thriving high streets is one of your top priorities and over the next few months you will start to see areas of the borough transformed as improvements to the borough's high streets take shape.

Better High Streets 2013

High Streets Programme

£9million

Building on the success of the shop front and street improvements in Leyton, Walthamstow and Wood Street, work continues on nine high street areas across the borough.

Blackhorse Lane, Walthamstow

Supporting on-going regeneration work in this area, including the potential move of Willowfield Humanities College and a new housing development in Sutherland Road, work is expected to start in the summer on improving the streets around Blackhorse Lane Station.

South Chingford

We have spoken to local businesses and designs for both shop front and street improvement works have begun. Proposals to renovate seven shop fronts on Albert Crescent and restore the Art Deco stone works have been presented to residents with positive feedback.

Francis Road, Leyton

To complement improvement works in Leyton, designs will be finalised shortly for shop front and street works to Francis Road, with work expected to start in June.

Higham Hill, Walthamstow

Higham Hill residents have until Friday 22 February to have their say on shop front works, road safety measures and improvements to Higham Hill Recreational Ground.
Visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/betterplace to view the designs.

Lea Bridge Road and Bakers Arms junction

The largest of the nine areas receiving funding, over 700 residents gave us their views on issues in this area - so we know it's your priority.

The majority of residents want to see improvements that turn this area from an uninspiring busy stretch of road to a desirable place for businesses to invest and thrive, attracting residents and visitors to the area.

Your feedback has helped us shape designs for the area. We are going to:

- Create a new public space for art, seating and lighting by removing the left-hand turns at this junction
- Make the junction easier and safer to use so that people can cross diagonally, install new crossing signals and a 20mph zone
- Improve shop fronts to selected parades to make the area more attractive and encourage new businesses
- Renew and widen pavements to create more space for pedestrians

Work is expected to start here in May.

South Leyton

The area south of Leyton Station is set for a revamp which will see changes to shop fronts from Calderon Road to Downsell Road and street works along the High Road making it safer and more attractive. Work is expected to start in May.

South Leytonstone

Leytonstone High Road underwent a massive transformation last year making it safer and more attractive for pedestrians, cyclists and motorists. Work will start on improving the shop fronts in May.

Walthamstow

Architects are developing an initial approach to the street scene, art interventions and shop signage improvements to Hoe Street. Shortly all shops will be invited to apply for our 'shopportunity' scheme which will see improvements to shop signage along Hoe Street from Walthamstow Central Station to The Bell junction.

Wood Street

Consultation on the playground in Wood Street has now finished. Designs are being drawn up based on feedback with work expected to begin in September. Over the next few weeks the area will be brightened up as artists start work on the shop signage and window improvements to 12 shops along Wood Street.

Lea Bridge Station £6.5million

We have secured £6.5million to reopen Lea Bridge Station to improve transport in the borough. Developers are already showing a keen interest in this area and the reopening of the station will be a significant boost to the local economy. Designs have been drawn up and we are working with Network Rail to kick-start this work. Construction will start in 2014.

Western end of High Street, Walthamstow

Morrisons plan to submit a planning application in Spring 2013. Proposals for the development will include a Morrisons store, new shops, 240 new apartments above the shops and the generation of nearly 450 jobs, many for local people.

Better Leisure

We are improving the borough's leisure facilities and in the last couple of months we have reopened the refurbished Leyton Gym, formerly Plumtree Studios, and committed to spend £1.3million on renewing parks to ensure that there is fantastic green space for everyone to enjoy. If that's not enough to whet your appetite find out what else we'll be up to over the next few months.

Cinema, Walthamstow

Get your popcorn at the ready as we are closer than ever to getting a cinema in the borough. Planning permission has been granted and work on the nine-screen cinema, homes, shops and restaurants will start in the Spring. The Empire cinema is expected to open in Winter 2014 showcasing the biggest blockbusters with the rest of the development complete by Spring 2015.

Crackdown on spitting

£80 fines to anyone caught spitting or urinating in the street

David Bailey's East End Faces

East End Faces opens at the William Morris Gallery. See p2

The latest issues to be addressed as part of Waltham Forest Council's Wipe it Out campaign are the unsavoury habits of spitting and urinating in the street. The Council will now actively hand people Fixed Penalty Notices (FPNs) as a deterrent in the same way as they do for littering.

"It's horrible to witness and leaves an unsanitary mess on our paths and pavements," said Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment. Why people think it is acceptable to indulge in what must be the most anti-social of behaviours is a mystery to all right-minded people, but the fact is they do."

Last year the Council carried out focus group sessions with residents in order to gauge how they felt about where they lived. Local people had strong views about how to maintain a cleaner, greener borough.

Gerald Starkey from Walthamstow told Waltham Forest News, "I think more powers to stop people spitting is a good idea because so many people just don't seem to care". Aziza Mbo from Walthamstow said: "I think extra powers to stop people spitting on the street is a good idea because it's disgusting". While Chander Kesarisingh from Leyton said: "The Council should make more use of CCTV for places where people are always fly-tipping or urinating in the street."

"This is an issue that people rightly feel needs addressing," said Cllr Loakes. "Anecdotally we know that there are some problems, and in areas with a night-time economy drinkers can sometimes relieve themselves in alleyways and the like.

"However I think the problem goes deeper than that. In the same way as in the past people would not have thought twice about throwing a cigarette butt on the pavement, or allowing their dog to leave a mess on a pathway, I think we need to make spitting and urinating in the street completely taboo too."

"This move sends out an unequivocal message to those people who spit or treat our streets like a toilet – you will be issued with a fine and you will find it the most expensive penny you have ever spent!"

The Council has 19 Enforcement Officers who issue FPNs for enviro-crime offences. They will issue people they catch spitting or urinating in the street with an FPN in the same way they would for dropping litter or not clearing up after their dog.

The new initiative is the latest element in the Council's Wipe it Out campaign, which was launched almost three years ago. This has seen us crack down on enviro-crimes such as fly-posting, littering, graffiti and dog mess. It has led to significant changes in behaviour, such as a 25 per cent drop in fly-tipping and a markedly cleaner borough.

In my opinion

Diana Korchien
Transition Leytonstone

There is one area that unites us all, however rich or poor we may be – we all need to eat. Whether it be burgers, beansprouts or beetroot; whenever we visit the supermarket we can observe prices not just gradually rising year on year, but literally jumping 40 or 50 pence in one fell swoop. I believe the two factors for this are increased manufacturing and transport costs (think oil, gas and electricity) and poor harvests due to climate instability.

Any allotment holder will tell you that there is no sweeter carrot than the one you have sown, grown and pulled out of the ground yourself. The only thing holding many of us back from growing our own is a lack of confidence.

So what can we do about the situation? Not all of us want an allotment, but it would be easy to dedicate part of your garden to growing food. Flat dwellers could consider growing in containers or a gardenshare with someone who has the space, but no time to cultivate.

Church Lane Community Garden in Harold Road, E11 4QX could also be part of the answer. It is a new food growing project initiated by Transition Leytonstone and supported by Waltham Forest Council and the London 2012 Changing Places Programme Transform, delivered by Groundwork London and the London Sustainability Exchange.

Transition Leytonstone is working hard to increase the amount of food grown, sold and consumed in the Leytonstone area. For the past 18 months, in partnership with Organiclea, it has been running a thriving Saturday local produce stall outside Matalan.

Hardworking volunteers have spent the past five months preparing the garden for cultivation, and it is finally ready to grow! A celebratory open day was held on Sunday 10 February and local residents came to share ideas, meet people and have their say on the future development of the garden.

The next few months will see a lot of activity at the site, including a series of free gardening workshops and engagement with local schools, markets and the community. The garden will help people with little or no previous food growing experience to get started on the right foot and create a positive social space out of forgotten disused land.

For more information on Church Lane Community Garden email communitygarden@transitionleytonstone.org.uk

David Bailey exhibition

- Director of the National Portrait Gallery introduces the exhibition

Celebrated British photographer David Bailey will be returning to the borough of his birth to exhibit intimate photographs of the East End at the William Morris Gallery (Forest Road, Walthamstow E17 4PP), offering a rare insight into the faces and characters synonymous with the decade that gave us the Beatles and the Rolling Stones.

East End Faces will run from Saturday 23 February to Sunday 26 May and includes previously unseen pictures from the 1960s, featuring streetscapes, characters and scenes of east London life. The exhibition will provide a rare opportunity to view the East End through the lens of a local icon.

Born in Leytonstone and raised in East Ham, Bailey is one of the borough's most famous sons and his iconic photographs immortalised 1960s London. The exhibition has an introduction written by Sandy Nairne, Director of the National Portrait Gallery.

Visitors can also listen to David Bailey in conversation with Sandy Nairne, Director of the National Portrait Gallery, on Wednesday 13 March at 7.30pm. Bailey will talk about his career and his exhibition looking back at London's East End.

Other related events include a tour of the exhibition with a William Morris Gallery Curator on Friday 19 April at 3pm and a family day on Saturday 30 March.

This exhibition represents the latest coup for the recently-refurbished William Morris Gallery, which opened to tremendous acclaim with a rare showing of Grayson Perry's stunning Walthamstow Tapestry.

The Gallery reopened last year after £5million worth of investment from the Council and the Heritage Lottery Fund and offers a one-of-a-kind opportunity to immerse yourself in the life and works of one of the 19th century's foremost creative artists and original thinkers - William Morris.

A stroke of genius

- Free swimming lessons on offer at Leyton's new pop-up pool
- Part of our drive to encourage residents to get fitter and healthier

Council Leader, Chris Robbins at Leyton's pop-up pool

Want to learn to swim? If so, Waltham Forest Council is offering adults the chance to upgrade their doggypaddle and capitalise on the borough's Olympic legacy with free swimming classes at Leyton's pop-up pool.

The mobile pool opened last month at the SCORE Centre Centre (100 Oliver Road, E10 5JY) as part of a London Legacy Development Company initiative called Make a Splash. While adult swim classes were initially priced at £2 per session, the Council has pledged to foot the bill and make the swim sessions free for residents.

During the day the pool hosts free swimming lessons for local schoolchildren, and adults wanting to practise their front crawl can now get the same deal during the evening.

As well as lone swimmers, the Council's Sports Development Team is also keen to hear from community groups who might want to block-book sessions for their members in groups of six or 12.

"Swimming is a great way of getting fit and staying healthy whatever age you are," said Chris Robbins, Leader of Waltham Forest Council. "While we're investing more than £24million in improving our leisure centres there are also plenty of other ways in which the Sports Development Team is encouraging local people to try new sports, be more active and provide access to better leisure opportunities. The mobile pool is just one example, and it's already proven to be a big hit with schoolchildren and adults alike. Now that we've made the adult lessons free I hope that even more residents will take up the challenge and try this fun, healthy pastime for themselves."

As part of a multi-million-pound deal with leisure providers Better, all of Waltham Forest's leisure centres are set to see a makeover. The remodelled and refurbished Leyton Leisure Centre reopened last month, while Walthamstow Leisure Centre (formerly Kelmscott Leisure Centre) will be the next to be formally reopened. Leyton Leisure Lagoon has temporarily closed its doors for improvement works and is set to reopen later in the year while Waltham Forest Pool and Track will be rebuilt from the ground up and offer a stunning new regional facility for the local community.

Meat reassurance

The shocking media revelations about horsemeat being found in 'beef' burgers and lasagnes on sale in supermarkets has left many of us wary about the food we eat.

Waltham Forest Council has reacted swiftly and decisively in determining potential exposure to the problem.

Our school meals provider Waltham Forest Catering (WFC), does not purchase any processed meat products, but instead prepares all products such as burgers and lasagne from raw meat supplied through a single trusted supplier.

The Council is reassuring residents that meat served in schools is purchased from a trusted supplier

"As a precaution the Council has contacted our supplier and they confirm that no products are sourced from the suppliers recently highlighted in the media," explained Cllr Clare Coghill, Cabinet Member for Children and Young People.

"We have provided schools with this advice and asked that they reassure parents and pupils accordingly."

The Council's Meals on Wheels providers have also given assurances that products are sourced from reputable suppliers and they are confident that they are not subject to concerns about meat contamination.

The Council's Food Safety Team are alert to the issues and will be taking them into account as they carry out their routine checks of the borough's food premises – of which there are around 700 every year.

However, as this is a national issue the response is largely being driven by central Government with the Food Standards Agency carrying out work with food suppliers.

Pancake race fun

Six teams went head to head in the name of charity on Shrove Tuesday for Forest YMCA's third annual charity pancake race. Teams of four tested both their mettle and their culinary skills, gripping their frying pans and flipping their pancakes as they raced around Waltham Forest Town Hall fountain in an attempt to win the coveted "Fastest Flippers in Waltham Forest" trophy. The overall winners were Eyram Johnson, Otis Lowe, Iskren Singa and Johnathan Nombreuse, a team of students from Waltham Forest College, who breezed through their heat and won the final in a time of 2 minutes 22 seconds. The event raised £100 for the Mayor of Waltham Forest's charity appeal for the Leyton Orient Community Sports Programme.

Mayor of Waltham Forest Richard Sweden with the rainbow flag flying outside Waltham Forest Town Hall to mark LGBT History Month

Council's Stonewall ranking

Waltham Forest Council is one of the best places to work in the country if you're lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender according to the latest Stonewall Workplace Equality Index. The 2013 rankings of leading lesbian, gay and bisexual rights charity Stonewall has recognised the Council once again as one of the UK's top 100 best employers of gay staff. The borough is one of only four London Councils to make the Top 100, and the council is now ranked at number 63 – up from 92 last year. Cllr Mark Rusling, Cabinet Member for Economic Development and Corporate Resources, said, "I am extremely pleased with the result this year, as it is the highest we have ever been ranked in the seven years that the Council has entered the index. The achievement is recognition of our continued commitment to creating a supportive, open and inclusive environment for all our staff and residents." The achievement was celebrated at an event hosted by the borough's first ever openly gay Mayor, Cllr Richard Sweden. At a reception held in the Mayor's Parlour on Monday 4 February attended by Councillors and officers Cllr Sweden toasted the success and formally launched LGBT History Month which will see a number of events take place in the borough during February. The Rainbow Flag will also fly outside Walthamstow Town Hall throughout the month.

- LGBT History Month will see events take place in the borough throughout February including film screenings and talks by prominent authors and filmmakers. For more information visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk.

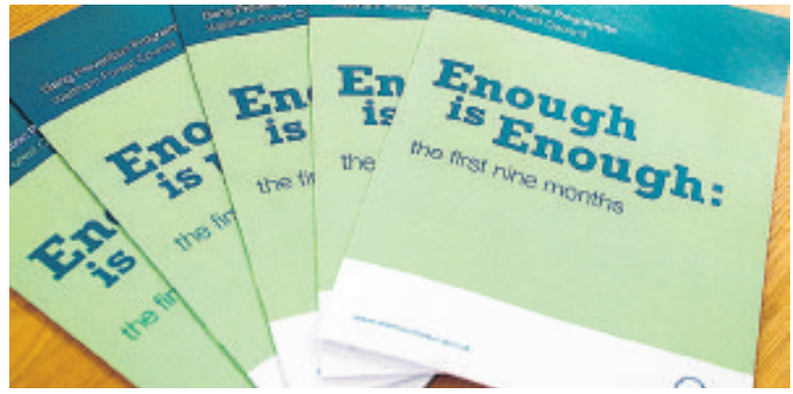
Priorities



As well as lobbying the Mayor of London for a fair number of police officers for Waltham Forest, the Council has introduced a successful anti-gang strategy, paid for extra police officers and is now working to get truants back into school, rather than causing anti-social behaviour on the streets.

Waltham Forest Council has four key priorities to help improve the lives of residents. In this edition we look at the work being done to reduce anti-social behaviour and make the borough's streets safer

If you've got an eye for statistics then you may well be aware that crime is falling across London, and Waltham Forest's crime rates have also seen improvements. Figures show, for example, that despite its limited resources, the borough has driven down gang-related crime to a greater degree than any other part of London.

While gang crime tends to grab the headlines, it rarely affects law-abiding residents going about their day-to-day business. Most of you, we know, are more concerned with anti-social behaviour at the end of your street or people causing a nuisance in your local town centre of an evening.

As well as tackling serious, high-level crime with our hardworking police colleagues via the borough's gang-busting Enough Is Enough initiative, we're also doing a great deal to combat other issues.

Extra officers

It might seem obvious, but any urban area needs enough police officers to drive down crime and help families feel safe. Back in 2009 we crunched some numbers and realised that Waltham Forest was being seriously short-changed when it came to the number of police officers the Mayor of London was giving us. Hardly ones to keep quiet when it comes to inequality, we launched the We're Calling For Back-Up campaign, which asked for a more balanced allocation. More than 7,500 of you joined us, and while we made our case we also put our money where our mouth is and paid for extra officers ourselves.

After three years of solid campaigning, the Council's hard work finally paid off in January 2013 and The Mayor's Office for Policing and Crime (MOPAC) decided to give Waltham Forest an additional 78 officers. In addition to these invaluable, on-the-ground officers, the Council understands that the borough will also be receiving high-level support from senior officers – raising our allocation to 119.

"Residents have frequently told us that community safety is one of their key concerns," said Cllr Liaquat Ali, Waltham Forest's Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Cohesion. "Despite not having the same resources as neighbouring boroughs like Hackney and Newham we've worked alongside our police colleagues and managed to drive down gang crime and offences like robbery. Having the extra officers we need is sure to make a huge difference, and we'll continue to work with the local police to make Waltham Forest an even better, safer place."

Wider policing issues

Residents will get the chance to say what they think about the Mayor of London's policing plans at a meeting on Monday 25 February. The Mayor is currently proposing to close public access to four police stations in the borough, leaving one 24-hour counter service in Chingford. The event will be chaired by Cllr Liaquat Ali MBE, Waltham Forest's Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Cohesion and will be held at Waltham Forest Assembly Hall (Waltham Forest Town Hall Complex, Forest Road, E17 4JF) from 6-7pm. For more information visit www.london.gov.uk/events/waltham-forest.

Truancy patrols

We take the problem of truancy very seriously, especially given the clear link between school attendance and educational attainment. As part of wider work across the borough to engage with families, a new truancy patrol was launched on Thursday 14 February to get errant children back to their classrooms, drive home the message that truancy is unacceptable and reduce anti-social behaviour.

The truancy patrol was made up of Council officers and Safer Schools police officers, and the team were joined by the deputy head of one of the borough's secondary schools. The team targeted known truancy 'hotspots' and carried out visits to the homes of persistent truants. Numerous primary and secondary-age children – both alone and accompanied by adults – were stopped and those without valid reasons for being absent were promptly returned to their respective schools.

Betting shops

While no-one begrudges resident the occasional flutter on the Grand National or the World Cup, one thing our residents have told us is that there are too many betting shops on our streets and in town centres. The Council is currently working alongside bookmakers to limit their impact and ensure they fall in step with our ambitious regeneration plans. After all, Waltham Forest recently agreed £9million worth of investment for local high streets, and we know that getting the right mix of shops and businesses is the key to future success for the borough.

What you say

Residents tell Waltham Forest News what they think about making the community a safer place

Donald Price, Chingford

"We need more police on the streets. It gives confidence to people to see a policeman or woman out walking the beat. Especially elderly people, who might otherwise be wary about leaving the house."

Florence Austin, Chingford

"I have teenage children, so it is important to me that the streets are safe both day and night. I think it's good that the Council works to stop children getting into gangs or playing truant."

Maria Demetriou, Chingford

"My daughter is a policewoman and my grandchildren are police cadets, so I would say that the police are doing a good job! But I do think it is good that the Council has worked to bring more police to the borough."

Eian Jeffrey, Chingford

"Crime is not just a problem in this borough, it is about people taking responsibility for their community and developing a mutual respect and understanding for each other."

Anna Czyzewski, Chingford

"I'm not sure we need many more police around during the day. I feel pretty safe out and about. I do think it is important to deal with issues early though, and the Council should intervene where they can."

Priority: Making our community a safer place

Commitment:

- Continue to pay for extra police officers
- Work with our young people at risk of joining gangs to make sure they have a positive alternative
- Create an anti-social behaviour task force to tackle anti-social behaviour throughout the borough
- Target bad landlords and support good ones

Priority: Helping you and your family

Priority: Keeping our borough clean

Priority: Bringing you better shopping, streets and leisure

Bag it and bin it

Owners that do not clean up after their dogs are being reminded they are liable to a Fixed Penalty Notice (FPN), which if they fail to pay within 14 days could result in £1,000 fine through prosecution in the Magistrates' Court. Council officers can serve a FPN to anyone seen allowing their dog to foul on the public highway and failing to remove it. Bagged dog waste can be put in any normal litter bin in the borough and with 1,800 bins throughout the borough there really is no excuse not to clean up after your animal.

Waltham Forest children were out in force to help with last year's Spring Clean

Spring Clean 2013

- Council initiative to tidy up the borough is back and bigger than ever
- Last year 3,000 residents collected 25 tonnes of waste in 66 clean-ups

This year the Council's Spring Clean initiative is set to be bigger and better than ever, with residents up and down the borough being encouraged to join in two weekends of action to make the borough spick and span.

Over the course of two back-to-back weekends – 15 to 17 and 22 to 24 March – Waltham Forest Council is looking for any local residents who can spare the time to help make their neighbourhood cleaner and tidier.

If you take pride in your borough and love living in Waltham Forest, then we want to help you make your neighbourhood as good as it can be. From litter picking to painting, cleaning to pruning, the Council will give you the equipment and help to get involved.

"It's a fantastic community event that we have built up year on year," explained Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Council Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment.

"In 2011 we managed to swell numbers to over 1,500 residents who took part in 44 clean ups. That jumped again last year as over 3,000 people turned out on the three Spring Clean days at 66 clean-ups.

"Now we're looking to do even better by having the Spring Cleans start on the Friday and repeat over two consecutive weekends. These events make a huge difference to neighbourhoods and the borough generally as they allow us to target private land as well us public spaces.

"Last year we removed 25 tonnes of waste from private locations and of that we managed to recycle or reuse 20 tonnes. You can imagine the difference that made to neighbourhoods up and down the borough."

Schools, Residents Associations, faith groups and others all pitch in with the annual Spring Clean initiative forming themselves into groups that tackle problem areas or take on specific tasks such as removing graffiti or painting railings or street furniture.

Council officers are also in attendance to ensure residents have all the right equipment and are provided with enough rubbish bags. Barry Coidan of Milton Road Residents Association has been involved for the last two years and is a keen advocate of the scheme, saying: "Spring Clean is a great opportunity to pull together as a community and get to know your neighbours, as well as tidying up the area.

"For us it has led to community events such as a street party last summer and a carol service at Christmas. On the day we'll have tea and bacon baps to get us fuelled up and ready to go and then all muck in for a couple of hours and probably end up with a pint or two at the local pub.

"It's as much about building that sense of pride in the place we all live in as it is about cleaning up."

Park pavilion renovation

- Ridgeway Park to have pavilion refurbished in latest round of park spending
- Green Flag park to benefit from £60,000 investment

Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment Cllr Clyde Loakes outside the pavilion in Ridgeway Park.

No sooner had Waltham Forest Council announced a £1.3million investment in 15 parks and playgrounds throughout the borough over the coming year, than it has been revealed that an additional £60,000 will be spent on upgrading the pavilion in Chingford's Ridgeway Park.

"I'm delighted we are able to renovate this important structure and enhance yet another park," said Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Council Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment.

"We know that Ridgeway Park is not only one of our most popular parks, but one of our best, as evidenced by the Green Flag status it was awarded in 2011 and that it retained last year.

"The works we have planned will mean people can continue to enjoy a first rate park. We're talking about a comprehensive refurbishment of the pavilion that should be complete in time for the school summer holidays when it will be most used. It is also of course the time of year when the miniature railway is up and running again on Sundays, so should complement that programme too."

The Council received considerable feedback from the local community and visitors that the Ridgeway Park pavilion needed some attention to ensure it was a well-used facility going forward.

The £60,000 will restore and encourage the full use of this facility and include a new internal layout, replacement windows, doors, flooring, light fittings, significant redecoration and new disabled and family toilets.

Park users and neighbouring residents and businesses will be consulted on the planned improvements before the proposals are finalised.

Sparky recovering in the veterinary hospital.

Justice for Sparky!

The owner of a Pit Bull type dog that attacked a Jack Russell called Sparky in Lloyd Park, Walthamstow in May 2012 has been given a Supervision Requirement Community Order to run for ten months. Johnny Tenjo of Greenleaf Road, Walthamstow was also ordered to pay £700 compensation to the victim at sentencing on 23 January. On 4 February the Council's Dog Enforcement Teams also celebrated their first prosecution under the Dangerous Dogs Act to lead to the issuing of a Dog Control Order. Max Ukaye of Kitchener Road, Walthamstow was found guilty of having a dog dangerously out of control in a public place after an incident in Kitchener Park on 8 April 2012. The Dog Control order requires him to walk his dog on a muzzle and a lead at all times in a public place. He was also ordered to pay £1,500 costs. Waltham Forest is the only London borough that actively enforces the Dangerous Dogs Act.

Cllr Mark Rusling, Cabinet Member for Corporate Resources and Economic Development, said: "We want to boost business in the borough and that is why we're investing in our high streets to support local shops and services. This Google workshop is an example of the support that we are providing small and medium businesses to help them to develop and grow." Fresh produce is on offer at Chingford Farmers Market

Chingford Farmers Market

Chingford Farmers Market has been going from strength to strength since it opened for business on Sunday 13 January. The market is sited on Station Road between Willow Street and Buxton Road and is made up of some 25 to 30 stalls offering savvy shoppers fruit, vegetables, meat, fish and plenty more besides. The market, which is managed by Essex Farmers Market, runs on the second Sunday of every month from 9am to 5pm. To attract traders and help boost their profits while times are tough, the Council agreed discounted terms with Essex Farmers Market for the initial period of business.

Police and crime consultation

Residents can have their say on what they think about the Mayor of London's policing plans at a meeting to be held on Monday 25 February. The Mayor is currently proposing to close public access to four police stations in the borough, leaving just one 24 hour counter service to be located in Chingford Hall. The consultation event, which will include a question and answer session, will be held at Waltham Forest Assembly Hall (Town Hall Complex, Forest Road, E17 4JD) and starts at 5.30pm.

Award for Leyton

- Leyton High Road scoops top planning award from Mayor of London
- Council now consulting on Conservation Area proposal for Leyton

The transformation of Leyton High Road was hailed as 'fantastic' by Mayor of London Boris Johnson as he handed over a prestigious London Planning Award to Leader of Waltham Forest Council Chris Robbins on Thursday 31 January.

The Council scooped the Best Town Centre Project in recognition of the huge changes that the area has undergone in the wake of a £2.3million facelift in the build up to the Olympic Games, followed by a £850,000 investment by the Council in improving shopfronts in the area.

Award winning Leyton High Road is currently being considered for Conservation Area status

Leader of the Council Chris Robbins said, "It is quite something to be presented with an award for one of the best projects of 2012 alongside developments such as the Olympic Park and Kings Cross Station.

"Last year was an absolutely fantastic year for the borough in so many ways and we're determined to build on that momentum and make the lasting legacy the regeneration of Waltham Forest."

The Council is now consulting local residents and businesses on a proposal to designate part of Leyton Town Centre as a Conservation Area, recognising the special character of the area as a place of architectural and historic interest.

Conservation area designation gives broad protection to an area and all features within it. If agreed it will mean that the Council, as the local planning authority, will have extra powers to control works to protect or improve the character or appearance of the area.

This part of Leyton is of particular historical interest, including two grade 2 statutorily listed buildings (Leyton Library and Leyton Municipal Offices) and Victorian park Coronation Gardens.

The consultation will run until Monday 18 March and an exhibition can be viewed in the foyer of Leyton Library.

Comments and queries about the consultation can be sent to Jacinta Fisher, Conservation Officer at Room G08, Sycamore House, E17 4JF or by email to urbandesign@walthamforest.gov.uk.

Waltham Forest in Pictures

Cyril Mann, Allotments with stormy sky, 1971, oil on canvas. Presented to the Borough of Waltham Forest by Renske Mann, 1971

Vestry House Museum is offering visitors a pictorial history of the borough as part of its latest exhibition, Waltham Forest in Pictures.

Included in the exhibition are three oil paintings by Cyril Mann, a figurative painter who lived in the borough from 1964 until his death in 1980. Mann's work has come to greater prominence in recent times, and this new exhibition presents a rare chance to see these highly-prized works in all their vivid glory.

As well as showcasing works by one of the capital's great artists, the exhibition also features works by lesser-known and unknown artists who've captured the borough on canvas. Six paintings that depict local landmarks like Chingford Old Church, Highams Park and the Coppermill, have been professionally restored thanks to a generous grant of £3,200 from Walthamstow Historical Society.

The community goodwill doesn't stop there, either, with the exhibition also being supported by Wood Street-based business Images In Frames, who donated mounts for eight watercolours and prints by the likes of Walter Spradbery and Charles Potter.

"It's always fascinating to see how the borough has changed over the years," said Cllr Ahsan Khan, Cabinet Member for Health and Wellbeing. "This latest exhibition places the world-class work of Cyril Mann alongside raw local talent, and while the techniques and approaches may differ they're unified by their ability to shine a light on familiar sites as they were a hundred years ago or ones that have long-since vanished from view."

The exhibition runs until Tuesday 31 December. Vestry House Museum (Vestry Road, Walthamstow, E17 9NH) is open Wednesday to Sunday from 10am-5pm. Entry is free.

Dancing on air

- Leytonstone man through to semi-final of TV dance show
- 'Godson' is a strong contender for the Got to Dance 4 crown

Leytonstone resident Theo Oloyade, better known by his stage name Godson, is limbering up for the semi-finals of TV dance show Got to Dance 4 after he made it into the final 30 of the competition.

The contest, broadcast on Sky 1 HD, aims to find Britain's best dancer and has a prize of £250,000. All styles of dance are featured, and Godson has chosen to showcase his talent for Krump – a form of street dance that originated in Los Angeles.

Godson wowed all three celebrity judges at the Got to Dance auditions last summer with an expressive, dynamic performance that showed off his impressive skills.

Judge Kimberly Wyatt, formerly of pop group the Pussycat Dolls, described his performance as "phenomenal" and fellow judge Ashley Banjo said that Godson was the best Krump dancer that had ever appeared on the show. High praise indeed from a man whose own dance group will go on a tour of major arenas later this year.

Like many others Godson was drawn to dancing from a young age, but it was an unlikely source of inspiration that led him thinking about dancing as more than just a hobby.

"I've always liked dancing and music," Godson told Waltham Forest News "but I didn't take it too seriously when I was younger. It was fun, and something I liked to do, but I never thought it could be my profession."

"Then when I was about 14 or 15 my English Teacher at Norlington Boys School in Leyton started putting on dance classes at lunchtime. I went along and have pretty much never looked back."

Godson will compete in the semi-final on Sunday 3 March and is now busy preparing for what could be the chance of a lifetime.

"I'm just concentrating on training and get ready," said Godson. "I'm a professional dancer so if I'm not working, I'm in the studio practising and if I'm not doing either of those things I'm in the gym!"

"People often don't realise how much training goes into dancing. There's a lot of athleticism required and you need strength and stamina so it's really important to be in good physical condition, as well as mentally prepared."

And Godson is keen to tell everyone about the benefits of dancing, whether it's a hobby or possible career.

"I was a chubby kid when I was young and dancing helped me to get fitter and start losing weight, so I think it's definitely a good way for kids to learn to be healthy. But it can also help give them confidence and allow them to come out of their shell and show their personality. Godson is a character that lets me be expressive and confident."

And what are Godson's plans for the future?

"I want to be the best and have the character and style that will stand out from everyone else participating, he said.

"When I decided to audition it wasn't a snap decision, there was lots of planning and I was determined to be prepared and do my best."

"I'm really happy that I got through to the semi-finals and I obviously hope that I win the show. I do Krump workshops and want to keep dancing and help teach more people how to express themselves through dancing. And I also want to make my own short films in the future."

Make you tune in on Sunday 3 March and show your support for Godson.

St Andrew's Church organ appeal

The Edwardian pipe organ at St Andrew's, Leytonstone will soon fall silent unless the church can raise £25,000 to repair its leaking bellows. A pipe organ produces sound by driving pressurised air, which is generated by bellows, through pipes selected via a keyboard. Because the bellows in St Andrew's pipe organ are failing only half of the organ can be played. In a few months it will stop making any sound at all as the bellows will not produce enough air pressure. Parishioners have already raised more than £7,000 towards the appeal by holding a 31 hour sponsored 'hymnathon' and other events. However they still need to raise over £17,000 to make the repairs and restore the organ to its former glory. There will be a number of fundraising events this year, including a musical event on Saturday 27 April and a production of Mystery Plays on Saturday 20 July.

Find out what activities are on offer for young people this half term

Winter Daze guide

With the school half term holiday beginning today, parents and carers will be looking for activities to keep their families entertained over the course of the next week. But never fear, help is at hand in the form of the Council's Winter Daze guide which lists play schemes, events, activities and entertainment for children and young people in Waltham Forest. The guide lists everything from activities for tots aged five and under, right up to schemes for teenagers. Many activities happening in libraries are completely free, meaning you don't have to break the bank to keep the kids happy during half term. The guide is available to download from the Council's website.

• To download a copy of the guide visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk and search for 'winter daze'. Free Internet access is available at all libraries in the borough.

Cllr Coghill formally opens the new facilities at Chapel End School

Chapel End update

Parents and local residents were invited to stroll around new facilities at Chapel End School when the new Willow Building for two-year-olds was formally opened on Thursday 24 January. The new building boosts the school's intake from three classes to five and brings the school's Early Years Foundation stage together, meaning the school's youngest pupils are brought together as they journey from toddlers getting to grips with the exciting new world of school to seasoned students ready to greet the challenges of infants school. The Willow Building features a smart, canopied play area, soft-play surfacing and a large, all-purpose room perfectly suited for all kinds of learning and play. As well as bringing the whole Early Years Foundation stage together, the new building means three classrooms are freed up for infant classes. "As well as great teachers we also need great facilities in which young people can learn and play," said Cllr Clare Coghill, Waltham Forest Council's Cabinet Member for Children and Young People. "The new facilities look great, and I think they'll help provide a perfect start for the school's youngest learners."

The 'This Is Abuse' campaign makes clear that abuse in a relationship is never acceptable.

Saying 'no' to abuse

• National campaign aims to prevent abuse in teenage relationships

• Help available locally for teens who feel they're at risk

A national campaign has been launched which hopes to help teenagers have safer, happier, abuse-free relationships.

The This Is Abuse campaign targets young people aged 13-18 and seeks to prevent them from becoming either victims in abusive relationships or perpetrators of abuse. It encourages teenagers to re-think their views of violence, abuse or controlling behaviour and seeks to steer them towards sources of help and advice.

It's a universal problem that transcends boundaries of race, background or religion and the sad fact of the matter is that one in four women and one in six men will experience domestic violence in their lifetime. Every year there are some 13 million separate incidents of physical violence or threats of violence against women from their partners or former partners and in cases of ongoing domestic or sexual abuse 89 per cent of the victims are women.

The campaign – which is being backed by MTV and magazines like Bliss – explains that abuse in a relationship is never 'normal' or 'ok' and that young people don't have to stand for it. It also states that 'abuse' doesn't just mean physical violence, but can mean threats, constant criticism or one partner controlling what the other does, wears or who they see.

As well as advice for teens, the campaign also offers advice for parents or carers; promotional materials for community groups and useful information for teachers. For full information visit www.direct.gov.uk/thisisabuse or search for the hashtag #thisisabuse on twitter.

While this is a national campaign, there's also a great deal of help available locally. Victim Support Waltham Forest dealt with roughly 2,000 referrals last year and local organisation Report It – which provides free confidential legal advice to victims of domestic violence and hate crime – can help obtain court orders, injunctions and non-molestation orders against abusive partners.

Other organisations operating in Waltham Forest include the Ashiana Network (for single and young people and those fleeing forced marriage); Haven Waltham Forest (offering counselling for men and women experiencing domestic or sexual violence) and ELOP, who offer counselling for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people experiencing domestic violence. The Council website has contact details for these organisations, as well as phone numbers for several national charities offering help and advice.

Day Opportunities Provider Event

The London Borough of Waltham Forest has embarked on an exciting new programme to transform the provision of day opportunities and services in the borough.

Day opportunities and services are a really important part of the care system but the way they are delivered needs to change. National strategies in areas like dementia care, mental health and learning disability all say that it is essential to develop services that meet the needs of individuals in personalised and person centred ways. Traditional day services have provided a safe environment for people to go during the day but too often they have not given people real opportunities to enrich their lives.

Through this project we aim to deliver a range of flexible, responsive and personalised day activities for our most vulnerable citizens. We recognise that drawing upon the experience, knowledge and innovation of the voluntary/community sector and independent providers within the local community is critical in helping us shape any future provision.

We would therefore like to invite all third sector providers within the local area to attend an event which aims to promote discussion and engagement and helps inform the future shape of day opportunities in the borough.

The event will be held on:

Tuesday 5th March 2013

At

Chingford Assembly Hall,
Station Road, Chingford E4 7EN

10.00 - 13.00

Waltham Forest

Libraries
£5million

Our four main 'Library Plus' buildings are set for a stunning redesign. The refurbished libraries will be modern and attractive spaces, equipped with new technology and providing residents with easy access to a wide range of services. Leyton Library will be the first to be transformed - designs will be finalised in Spring, with works expected to start in August.

Better Leisure 2013

> "As part of our work to create a better place we are transforming leisure facilities across the borough."

Parks
£1.3million

Waltham Forest boasts fantastic green spaces, and we want to build on this asset through our £1.3million investment in 15 parks and playgrounds. Works will start throughout the year with work at Cann Hall Park, Coronation Gardens, Leyton Manor Park, Low Hall Sports Ground, Thomas Gamuel Park and Wingfield Park starting in Spring.

Leyton Jubilee Park
£TBC

Spring will see the opening of the two new natural play areas and the new energy efficient pavilion, which includes high level wall insulation, low energy lighting and solar panels. We are currently appointing a management company for the pitches in this park and at Drapers Field ready for the start of the football season.

Leisure Centres
£24.5million

As part of our work to create a better place we are transforming leisure centres in Leyton, Leytonstone, Chingford and Walthamstow. Next week we will officially reopen Walthamstow Leisure Centre, formerly known as Kelmscott Leisure Centre.

New facilities include:

- Six badminton court sports hall – fully refurbished
- 56 station fitness suite
- Dance studio
- Two squash courts
- Crèche
- Outdoor pitch for netball/football with a new surface
- Refurbishment of changing rooms
- Relocation and refurbishment of the reception area

For membership options visit www.better.org.uk/walthamstow or phone 020 8520 7464.

Work has started at Leyton Leisure Lagoon. The centre, which will be renamed Leyton Leisure Centre, is expected to reopen in October 2013, and will offer the very best in swimming facilities.

Walthamstow Central Station development
£22million

The development behind Walthamstow Central Station by Solum Regeneration, which includes affordable housing and five retail units, is expected to open in Autumn. Visitors will be able to stay in a 107 room Travelodge hotel helping to boost spend in the borough by approximately £1million.

Better Schools

£50million

We are improving schools in the borough as well as providing school places to meet the current and future demand.

Willowfield Humanities College

We are increasing the capacity at Willowfield Humanities College from 600 to 900 school places. To do this the college will be relocated to a brand new building on a disused industrial site adjacent to Blackhorse Road Station and Douglas Eyre Playing Fields.

This will be the largest schools project the Council undertakes and promises to be an asset to the borough's young people. The college will offer existing and new students more classrooms, modern facilities and use of the playing fields.

The new site is currently being prepared for demolition, if the relocation is agreed building work will start at the end of 2013.

We know that a good education is paramount in ensuring our children have brighter futures.

Leytonstone Business and Enterprise Specialist School

We fought for a fair deal when the Government scrapped the Building Schools for the Future programme because we know that a good education is paramount in ensuring our children have brighter futures.

Leytonstone Business and Enterprise Specialist School, with 900 pupils, was one of the schools that had its funding cancelled. We are looking to update the school to provide pupils and staff with a new building as well as refurbishing the existing building to feature modern facilities that will support development.

During 2013 the architects will develop the designs with the Council and the school, with construction expected to start in May 2014.

Thorpe Hall Primary School

Residents had their say on proposals to extend Thorpe Hall Primary School. If agreed, work will include replacing an old 1970's block of four classrooms with 12 modern ones that will provide additional space for the anticipated increase in school placements. Work is expected to start in 2014.

Work to modernise the school's kitchen and dining facility is expected to start in May 2013.

Barclay Primary School

Have your say on proposals to expand Barclay Primary School by two forms, meaning that the number of pupils admitted would increase from 120 to 180 per year from September 2014 onwards.

The school is very popular and cannot accommodate all requests for school places. If agreed a new school building will be created for the additional pupils on the former Chestnuts House site on Hoe Street with demolition of the new site scheduled for July.

You have until Friday 15 March to feedback your views. For more information visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/betterschools

Stoneydown Park Primary School

If plans to expand Stoneydown Park Primary School from a 1 ½ to a 3 form entry school get the go ahead the new classrooms will be provided on the nearby former disability centre at Warner Road. Work is expected to start July 2013.

Better Housing

The Council has a key role to play in ensuring there is quality housing available for residents at every stage of their lives, and that this is supported by facilities that residents can use and enjoy to make Waltham Forest their home for life.

Extra Care Housing Schemes

To support the needs of our growing elderly population two new Extra Care supported housing schemes are being built. These will enable older adults and disabled people to live independently with access to the services they require.

A planning application will be submitted in March for the provision of up to 50 one and two bed extra care units on Flaxen Road, Chingford. If approved, the scheme's designs will be finalised in June with work starting shortly after.

Designs for the 44 one and two bed extra care units at Weale Road development are to be finalised next month, with work starting shortly after.

Blackhorse Lane Area

The Blackhorse Lane area, which is to the west of the borough and borders Haringey, continues to be a key regeneration site for the borough, with the potential to provide hundreds more homes and jobs over the next few years. Work will start at a number of mixed use schemes this year.

Some key dates include:

- Phase 3 of Papermill Place is expected to be complete in March offering a further 82 homes and a small park
- Work will start in the summer at Webbs, Sutherland Road, to develop a mix of housing, shops, a health facility and spaces for small businesses
- 'Blackhorse Workshops' will be located at Sutherland Road with works expected to start in July

Walthamstow Stadium

London and Quadrant Housing Trust will build nearly 300 high quality homes for people on a range of incomes, with a plaza area and communal garden for residents to enjoy.

Other facilities include a children's nursery, café and crèche, and £3.8million will be spent on improving local leisure, education, health and transport facilities for the whole community.

The development will create up to 250 jobs, including apprenticeships and training opportunities for local people. Construction is expected to start in August.

"£3.8million will be spent on improving local leisure, education, health and transport facilities for the whole community."
